ZAGORJE COUNTY

Cultural Heritage:

Gingerbread ('LICITAR'),

a colourfully decorated confection traditionally produced in northern Croatia, usually in the shape of a heart.

Wooden toys, a particular, traditional handicraft of Croatian Zagorje from the mid 19th century. The toys are made by hand by men, then floral and geometric motifs are painted on them by women. One of the elements on the UNESCO Intangible Cultural Heritage List.

The tambura, a traditional stringed instrument, first took root in Slavonia, then in the 19th century in other parts of Croatia, and has become one of the symbols of Croatian musical identity.

KRAPINA – our town

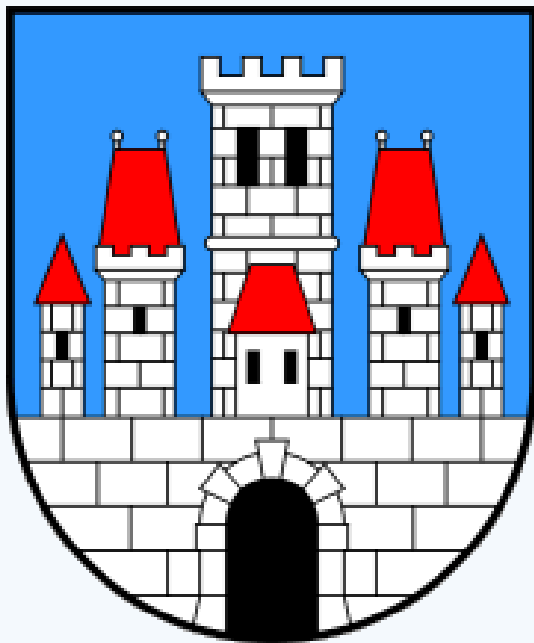

About Krapina:

- is a town in northern Croatia and the administrative centre of Krapina-Zagorje County with a population of 12,480 (2011)
- Krapina is located in the hilly Zagorje region (county) of Croatia, near Zagreb
